Sunday 29th May 2022

Sunday Year C

Seventh Sunday of Easter

Weekday Cycle II

"May they all be one."

World Communications Day reminds us that before his ascension Jesus commissioned his apostles and sent them out to the ends of the earth to make disciples of all people, baptising them in the name of the Father, the Son and the Holy Spirit. Today we pray for the coming of the Holy Spirit at Pentecost to inspire us to live as missionary disciples, ready to share, in love and in word, the faith that shapes our lives.

In dioceses around the world, as part of the preparation for a General Assembly of the Synod of Bishops in 2023, over the last months we have been listening to the joys, hopes, sorrows and anxieties of one another about the Church we love. We have been invited to consider how we can become a more missionary Church in spreading the Good News of Jesus Christ so that we can reach out to those who do not know him and those who have walked away from their faith. Many people are thirsting to find a deeper meaning in their lives as well as a deeper peace. This is seen in the desire for retreats and pilgrimages, and in the interest in "mindfulness". Some find pathways of spirituality but are not interested in the structure of the Church; they are suspicious of institutions. As the preparations for the 2023 Synod continue across the world, we are more aware of the Church in every country and our unity with the Pope as the successor of Peter. As the Church faces these questions, we are also invited to listen to and reflect with our Christian brothers and sisters with whom we share a common baptism and desire greater unity. We are called to journey and walk together so that the world may believe in Jesus Christ who desires to draw the hearts of all people into communion. He offers the water of life freely to all who come to believe in him.

The division among Christians is a scandal that damages the witness of the Church. Today's Gospel is often used as a prayer for Christian unity, "May they all be one. Father, may they be one in us, as you are in me and I am in you, so that the world may believe it was you who sent me." As we walk together towards a day when there will, we pray, be unity, we are invited to pray together and act together, especially in the service of those who are poor and weak.

The Gospel invites us to build our relationship with Jesus Christ and deepen it so that our love for Jesus mirrors the love between the Father and the Son. We can bring ourselves into the silence of prayer and know that Christ is with us. He is with us when we gather to worship him at Mass. He is closest to us in Holy Communion and adoration of the Blessed Sacrament.

In the horror of the scene of St Stephen being stoned to death, Stephen remains peaceful and trusts in God. Around him there is noise and anger; vicious people who throw the stones; Saul looking on and enjoying the death of another Christian. Stephen trusts in the words of Jesus that he is with him and prays, "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit", and "Lord, do not hold this sin against them." He forgives them from the depths of his heart.

One of the powerful ways in which Christians can journey together is to witness to the gift of forgiveness. The gift of forgiveness is at the heart of the Gospel. For some, such an abundance of mercy is a scandal in a world that condemns, punishes and finds it difficult to forgive the faults of others or restore offenders to society. Forgiveness of the past, of public faults, of sins, is something that is alien to many people, including those who proclaim a hard-line Gospel, often through social media, and focus on the sins of people rather than the mercy of God. The Church has also struggled through the ages when some voices have said that God's mercy should be limited. Pope Francis has expressed the desire that all try to find a home in the Church and invited us to walk together and accompany people so that they may be reintegrated into the Church. Your priests as pastors are called to welcome people and to try to help you walk this pathway of mercy and forgiveness.
